Now, at the commencement of the year, every farmer should east over in his mind what he will do and how he will do it. Which fields he will farm with corn; which with oats, whest, cotton or tobacco; which he will pasture, which mow, or which plant in potatoes.

How much help he will require, where it is to come from and what it will cost. How much capital is in-yested, if less would do, if more is required and how much.

All these things should be noted on a memorandum, which can be altered from time to time, if he sees proper to do so.

To conduct any business without a system to govern it, is like groping in the dark; you may catch a good hanl by accident, or you may sink your capital for want of forethought. Do not depend on hind-thought; it comes too late; though sometimes instructive, it is very ex-pensive and dangerous to be indulged

When you have laid your plans of what is to be done, provide the means to do them with, do them well and in the right time. These are very important considerations and should by no means be neglected. Do not depend on purchasing seed when the time has come for planting or sowing, or you may have to take such as have been refused by others and pay the highest price for it. If there are new implements to be purchased, or old ones to be repaired, see to it in time. Get the bestthey are the cheapest in the end. Keep the brain at work as well as the hands. Rise with the sun, or before it, and retire early.

A GRAIN BINDER .- The Davenport (Iowa) Gazette states that S. F. Parker, of that city, has recently introduced an improved grain binder, attached to the side of a reaper, that of which is traversed by a rake on an endless belt that carries the grain from before the sickle when cut, and lays it over on the binder This is a concave of sheet iron in which the grain lies until bound From a spool the twine unwinds through the tying apparatus, is eaught by a nipper, carried around and wrapped tight on the sheaf, is tied into a perfect knot, is cut, and the sheaf drops to the ground securely bound. The making of the knot, never before accomplished in all the numerous attempts at binding by machinery, is completely successful; the mechanism by which this is acby a perfect sewing machine. The Gazette adds, respecting this improvement, that "once in successful use they will revolutionize harvest work, and will add millions of dollars to the wealth of the nation, in the immense paving they will effect in the cost of securing the grain crops of the Great West.

ATHENS O., January 5 .- A young friend gave me his experience in "Hog Cholera" a few years ago, and I will repeat it for the benefit of others. It was this: His father's hogs had been dying rapidly with that disease. One morning he emptied a scuttle full of cinders and ashes into the pen with the idea of filling up some holes the hogs had made in it. He was surprised to see the hogs leave their corn and "go for" the hot cinders and ashes. He repeated this from time to time, not so much now, with the idea of leveling the floor of the pen as to please the hogs. But a more agreeable surprise was that there were no more "cholera cases" in that pen! A few years later, this same friend removed to Illinois, into a neighborhood where the farmers were losing many of their logs by cholera. He suggested the same preventive there, and saw the same results follow its use in every case. I have no reason to doubt the veracity of this person, and the remedy being so simple and everywhere so easily obtained, I would like to have those suffering loss in this way to try it, and give the results, for the benefit of the readers of the 'GAZETTE, when obtained.

Bones Turker.-Fill the body with oysters, and let it boil by steam; without any water. When sufficiently done, take it up, strain the gravy that will be found in the pan; thicken it with a little flour and butter, add the liquor of the oysters intended for sauce also stewed, and warm the oysters up in it; whiten it with a little boiled cream and pour it over the turkey.

JOHN HUTSINPILLER.

Gallipolis, Nov. 26, 1869. JOHN L. KUHN-DEAR Sta:-Having been severely afflicted with Boils, running through a period of several months, I had recourse to your Salve, and found its healing properties to set like a charm. I have frequently heard it recommended, by those who have used it, for the cure of old sores, cuts, bruises, &c.

JAMES HARPER.

We, Messrs. Henring, Allemong & Co., certify that we believe the Kuhn Ointment to be the best in use, for the cure of Chilblains or frosted feet, Felons, Boils, Bruises and sores of every description, and cheerfully rec-ommend it to the public, and pronounce it no humbug. HENKING, ALLEMONG & CO.

I, Dr. VAN VIECK, Dentist in Gallipolis Ohio, hereby certify that I was afflicted with a running sore on my leg, and that I tried every available remedy, without success, until I obtained the Kuhn Ointment, which did Pure Wines and Brandies, cure it sound and well, and I can say but try

I, J. Jonsson, do certify that I had the Eryspelas for some six months, and I tried many remedies without producing a cure, unail I obtained the use of the Kuhn Ointment, and in one week there was not a trace of it left. If you buy one box and use it, you will never do without it. J. JOHNSON.

GALLIPOLIS, Nov. 18, 1869. Mr. J. L. Kunn:-I have used your Oint ment for many years, and have always found it a sure and speedy cure for Boils, Bruises and Sores. I consider it one of the best Oint-ments in use.

up the Cloth by simply moving the batton back and forth. It weaves Jeans, Blankets, Tweeds, Satinet, Kersey, Plain Cloth, Toweling, Birdeye-Diaper, Carpets, &c., &c. The weaver has only to change the Pins in the Treadle Wheel to make the different kinds of cloth. By an arrangement of the machinery of this Loom, that no other has, the weaver can make as much or as little of the Shed when the Batton is coming forward as is required, completing the Shed as the Batton goes back; or, it can all be made as the Batton comes forward, for the purpose of weaving woolen warp that clings.

By this arrangement, the filling is always beat up after the cross is made, making better cloth and better selvage than can be made by the open shed, because, it prevents the felling from being drawn out atthe edge towards the chuttle after it is beat up.

These looms are made of the best black walnut lumber, got up in the best of style and oil finished. They are furnished with 1,250 of the best wire heddles, one steel reed, any hundred desired, one wheel shuttle of PITTSBURGH AND GEORGIA YARNS, Carpets and Oil Cloths.

any hundred desired, one wheel shuttle of the best manufacture, twelve bobbins, tem-ples, rathe, &c., allcomplete, ready for weav-ing. They are made to weave 5-4 wide. Am thankful for the very liberal patronage I have received, and hope for a continuance
